WHAT IS BOOKCROSSING?

Do you like reading but can't afford to buy books? If so, you may be interested in the worldwide book club that aims to make the whole world a library. Ron Hornbaker founded the BookCrossing website (www.bookcrossing.com) so that people can share the books they have enjoyed reading with other people.

All you have to do is follow these three simple steps. First of all you have to read a good book. Next you register the book on the website with your comments and you'll be given a BookCrossing identification number which you write inside the book. Finally you release the book for someone else to find. You can give the book to a friend, leave it on a park bench, or even forget to take it with you when you leave a coffee shop. Now you just have to wait! When another person picks up the book, he or she will see the BookCrossing information and ID number inside the book and go to the website and say that the book has been found. The process can then be repeated!

BookCrossing operates all over the world. In Spain, Barcelona and Madrid are the cities which have the most books registered. Perhaps one day you will be lucky enough to find an interesting book on the metro in Madrid or in a cinema in Barcelona. If you do, remember to record it on the website, read it and release it and the whole process can continue!
